"I chose to go into the career of Psychology, because I can learn to understand mental processes and look for possible solutions to help others. The greatest influence in my life has been my mother, because no matter what I am going through, she has taught me how to get through it. She is a strong and enterprising woman. Thanks to her character, I am learning to be honest and loyal with my principles and thoughts. My greatest challenge in my life was when she got sick. I had to take her place in taking care of my younger sisters while still having to go to school. I prayed a lot to God that she would be able to get out of her depression."
